

Amanda Jolly Executive Director

Welcome to 2021. It is so exciting to be back embarking on a season of theatre, with some much-loved plays and others unknown.

And what better work to return with than this great American classic — directed by our own Artistic Director, Lee Lewis and featuring a cast of 16 outstanding Queensland actors. You'll find some familiar faces and discover some rising stars of tomorrow — a village of artists

When the coronavirus pandemic forced us all indoors last year, we eventually came to realise what has been most important all along. It turned out to be the little things, the things we had been too busy for, the things so tiny that they're actually massive. Like reaching out to a neighbour. Taking a moment for a colleague who's struggling. Calling a distant friend. And above all, spending time with family. We craved togetherness, and meaning, and hope.

Our Town celebrates all of this and more. With its simplicity and heart, it reminds us of the power of theatre and how much we have all been missing this shared experience. Enjoy.

— Best wishes, Amanda

Queensland Theatre would like to acknowledge the Jagera and Turrbal people who are the Traditional Custodians of this land. We pay our respects to their Elders both past and present, and to all Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

OUR TOWN

Communit

With a story so simple and a heart so warm, this classic celebrates all that is precious in life.

Life in a small town. Babies are born. Children go to school, and play and dream. People grow up, fall in love, get married, hold down a job, and grow old. The same surnames last down through the years, but the faces change. There are inevitable tragedies and triumphant joys.

As we come to know the people in this town, we see how the threads of their everyday lives are gently woven into the rich and complex, funny and heartbreaking fabric that is community. And for all its simplicity, this play reveals a great truth at its heart: deep meaning and startling value are in every moment of existence. You don't know what you've got until it's gone.

Pulitzer Prize-winning Our Town has long been America's most performed play. It reminds us to look to the future with hope, to see the beauty in the everyday world and to cherish the people we love.

'The climax of this play needs only five square feet of boarding, and the passion to know what life means to us.'

Lee Lewis Director

I am writing this note for the Our Town program on the night before Joe Biden is inaugurated as the 46th President of the United States of America.

The 'united' states... the last 20 years have seen the disintegration of that state of unity, accelerating towards an attack on the Capitol in the final days of Donald Trump's term in office. The America of Thornton Wilder's Our Town may be lost, but strangely I have always found the humanity he details more strongly here in Australia than I ever did in my years over there

Tucked in a freezing cold pocket of the Southern Highlands is the little town I grew up in, Goulburn, my Grover's Corners. Funnily enough, in the first week of rehearsal we spent a lot of time talking about where we find our own Grover's Corners: Ipswich, Grafton, Tewantin, Thursday Island are just a few communities we recognised through Thornton Wilder's lens. He wasn't writing for America — he was writing for a sense of humanity. He was writing for people who need to take a moment and recognise the importance of family, community and the familiar. He was writing for times like the one he found himself in - 1938 - when the world knew it was heading towards another global conflict, and fear, anxiety and denial drove all conversations

So back in June last year, when we were trying to imagine what stories people could possibly want to see in a seemingly impossible 2021, my heart reached out to Thornton Wilder's story. And gathering this beautiful group of actors together in the days after a difficult Christmas, his words started to work their magic on all of us. His scenes and sentences remind us to cherish every moment we have with those we love. This was a voice coming to us from another difficult time — proof that we have survived difficult times before and will again. This playwright lived through a World War, the Spanish Flu pandemic and the Depression. He gathered bits of wisdom and distilled them into a play we can use over 80 years later, on the other side of the planet, when we need to hear those thoughts again. I am always in awe of the power of the playwright!

We are hearing his words in our own voice — I hope you don't mind. Sometimes we want to travel through a play and sometimes we want to find the play in us. Maybe because the geography of Goulburn is so like the geography of Grover's Corners, I have always heard this play in Australian voices. And what a collection of voices it is. I want to thank each and every one of the actors for all the life they have poured into the making of this play. It has been such a joy being back in a rehearsal room and I feel incredibly grateful to them all for the leap of faith they have taken in making this play with me. They are our artists. They are our town. Please join me in cherishing what they have created.

Thornton Wilder

Playwright

Born in Madison, Wisconsin, and educated at Oberlin, Yale (B.A. 1920) and Princeton (M.A. 1925), Thornton Niven Wilder was an accomplished novelist and playwright whose works, exploring the connection between the commonplace and the cosmic dimensions of human experience, continue to be read and produced around the world. Wilder is the only writer to win Pulitzer Prizes for both fiction and drama for his novel The Bridge of San Luis Rev (1927) and two plays. Our Town (1938) and The Skin of Our Teeth (1942). His other novels include The Cabala, The Woman of Andros, Heaven's My Destination, The Ides of March, The Eighth Day and Theophilus North. His other major dramas include The Matchmaker (adapted as the musical Hello, Dolly!) and The Alcestiad. The Happy Journey to Trenton and Camden and The Long Christmas Dinner are among his celebrated shorter plays. Wilder also enjoyed success as an essayist, translator, research scholar, teacher, lecturer. actor, librettist and screenwriter. His screenplay for Alfred Hitchcock's Shadow of a Doubt (1943) remains a classic psycho-thriller to this day. Wilder's many honours include the Gold Medal for Fiction from the American Academy of Arts and Letters, the Presidential Medal of Freedom, the National Book Committee's Medal for Literature The Order of Merit (Peru), and the Goethe-Plakette (Germany), In 1930, with royalties received from The Bridge of San Luis Rey, Wilder built a home for himself and his family in Hamden, CT. Although often away from it for as many as 250 days a year, restlessly seeking quiet places in which to write. Thornton Wilder always returned to "the house the Bridge built". He died here of a heart attack on December 7th, 1975.

More information on Thornton Wilder and his family is available in Penelope Niven's definitive biography, Thornton Wilder: A Life as well as on the Wilder Family website, thorntonwilder.com

Acknowledging Visionaries who individually support special Queensland Theatre funds:

Landmark Productions Fund
Play Commissioning Fund

Annual donations over $500 are acknowledged in play programs for 12 months from the date of donation.

LANDMARK PRODUCTIONS FUND

Thank you to the Visionaries who generously support our Landmark Productions Fund, cementing Queensland Theatre as a national leader in the development and staging of productions of significant scale.

In 2021, Trent Dalton's Boy Swallows Universe, adapted for the stage by Tim McGarry, will amaze audiences as it catapults the blockbuster Brisbane novel into real life.

Keep the good conversations going on the trip home!

OUR TOWN IS YOUR TOWN

Your immense generosity in 2020 has played no small part in starting this year with our biggest cast yet on the Bille Brown Theatre stage.

Even more significant, Our Town marks the mainstage debuts for seven of the sixteen-strong, all-Queensland cast, including four members of our Young Artists Ensemble.

Including a donation with any ticket purchase in 2021, will help us continue transforming possibilities into realities for the next generation of artists in our town.
